Elementary calculus: percentages, rule of three and basic simplifications of quotients (also sums, subtractions, multiplications and quotients).
 Solution of linear equations with one unknown.
 Solution of two linear equations with two unknowns (by substitution).
 Plot of linear equations in 2D graphs. Relationship with solutions to two linear equations with two unknowns.
 Graphic interpretation of the slope of a line.

Competences and skills that will be acquired and learning results. Further information on this link

The subject Principles of Economics introduces the student into the rudiments of economic analysis so she (he) can start to thinking as an economist. To achieve this, a complete overview of the economic system is given. It is explained how individual agents relate to each other (consumers and producers) and how their interactions in the market give rise to economic aggregates at the macro level (production of goods and services, price levels, distribution of income). Emphasis is placed on consumer choice (demand) and producer supply in an institutional framework (laws and governments) conditioning their decisions and facilitating exchange relations.

Skills

- Identify, organize and analyze relevant economic information in a critic and systematic way.
- Clearly state economic problems assessing their scope and advancing viable solutions.
- Understand the relationship between economy and society in a world strongly influenced by technological progress and climate change.

Attitudes

- Respect for economic facts as a basis for decision making both in private and public policies.
- Interest in other persons' ideas and willingness to express own opinions with grounds on empirical references.

4.3.1 Students are expected to have completed...

You will find this section in the syllabus for some subjects. It is very important to check if the subject you want to enroll in features any of these requirements. Check this example from the subject “Principles of Economics” from the Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration:

5 AVAILABLE SPOTS. IMPORTANT!

Availability for class spots at UC3M is subject to demand. UC3M does not guarantee a spot in all groups that exist for the same subject. In order to know the spots available for the group you are interested in, you are obliged to read first the document “How to see available spots at UC3M” that you will find on our website.

!IMPORTANT - PRIOR TO ARRIVAL!

Even though UC3M has a wide offer of courses taught in English, for the ones mentioned below, due to their high popularity the demand of spots usually exceeds the supply.

If you intend to include any of the courses featured on the list below into your study plan or learning agreement, we strongly recommend that you find an alternative course to have a back-up choice. In that case you should agree those alternatives courses with your home academic advisor before arriving at UC3M.
